

SUMMARY

The Subject Matter of the Graduation Thesis: Information security as a component of the system of economic security of an organization: modern state and ways of improvement (on the example of the joint stock company «Company TransTeleCom»).

The Author of the Graduation Thesis: Kisler Anastasiya Evgenievna.

The Supervisor of the Graduation Thesis: PhD in Economics, Professor of the Department of Economics, Management and Finance A.P. Kolyadin.

The Information about the Contracting Authority: JSC «Company TransTeleCom».

The Topicality of the Research: In the conditions of rapid development of information strategies the problem of the ensuring of economic security is coming to the fore. The right assessment of the efficiency of such systems will enable one to ensure a maximum level of organization's economic security, whose element is information security with minimum costs. And the explanation of this is very simple – the realization of ever one threat to information security can bring about catastrophic consequences for the system of an organization's economic security.

Objectives of the Research: is a comprehensive analysis of information security as a component of the system of an organization's economic security and working out of recommendations for its improvement.

The Tasks of the Research:

- to reveal the essence and role of information security in the system of an organization's economic security;
- to study vulnerabilities, threats and sources of an organization's economic security;
- to examine the ensuring of economic security as an element of an organization's economic security;
- to reveal the principles and methods of the ensuring of economic security as an organization's economic security;

- to carry the analysis and assessment of the ensuring of economic security in the joint stock company «Company TransTeleCom» as a component of the organization's economic security;

- to develop recommendations for the improvement of information security as an element of the system of economic security of the joint stock company «Company TransTeleCom».

The Theoretical Significance of the Research is in the extension of scientific ideas of the essence of information security, existing and potential threats to the organization's economic security, methods, used to eliminate those threats, and also in the determination of the role and place of information security in the system of the organization's economic security. The practical significance of the research is in the fact that the proposed recommendations for the optimization of the ensuring of information security as a component of the organization's economic security can be used both in the work of the joint stock company «Company TransTeleCom» and in other organizations.

The Findings of the Research: The need for the ensuring of information security as a component of the organization's economic security is conditioned by a high degree of the probability of the threats to the economic level of the development of business and financial position of the economic subject due to the negative influence on its information sphere.

Recommendations:

- as a first recommendation we suggest conducting systematic audit of the ensuring of information security;

- as a second recommendation we suggest conducting regular training of the employees of the joint stock company «Company TransTeleCom» on security problems.