

ABSTRACT

Subject matter: «Linguistic specific Features of Sports Vocabulary Translation (on the Materials of English Internet Resources)»

Author: Stepanova S. A.

Scientific supervisor: Kulintseva N. A., associate professor.

Information about the sponsor organization: Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University; 9 Kalinin Ave., Pyatigorsk, Stavropol region, 357532.

Research relevance: being inherently an international phenomenon, sport, nevertheless, at the present stage of its development operates with English as the language of international communication. In this regard, a special role is assigned to sports translators, among the main requirements for which are not only a deep knowledge of the language, but also mastery of sports terminology in all its diversity. It is this fact, as well as the fact that there is a need for an integrated approach to the study of the lexical content of sports discourse as one of the components of the linguistic picture of the world, that the relevance of the topic of this research is determined.

Purpose: to analyze the techniques of translating the vocabulary and terminology of modern English-language sports discourse into Russian.

Tasks: to explore translation as an act of interlingual communication has been characterized and the types of translation transformations; to determine the place of terminology in the lexical system of the language; to analyze sports terminology as a special subsystem of the lexical composition of the language; to consider the specifics of the sports vocabulary of modern English, as well as the features of the translation of sports terminology from English into Russian; to analyze the application of translation transformations when translating sports terms from English into Russian (when translating terms of football, rugby, boxing, squash, tennis).

Theoretical and practical significance: the theoretical significance of this final qualifying work lies in the presentation of new aspects in the study of sports terminology in the English language and in considering the specifics of its transmission into Russian. The practical value of this study is determined by the fact that its results can be used during classes on the lexicology of modern English, stylistics, in the cycle of disciplines on the theory and practice of translation, in the practical training of translators within the framework of the «Sport» thematic block, they as well can be used as materials when working on course projects and final qualifying works.

Results of the research: the study proved that when translating sports terminological units, such translation transformations are used as (from the highest to the lowest): tracing, modulation, transcription, descriptive translation, addition, grammatical replacement, generalization, omission, concretization, transliteration. The use of these translation transformations is undoubtedly due to the very specific nature and features of the semantics of sports terminological units.

Recommendations: the research results may be used in translation practice.