

SUMMARY

Subject of the thesis: Role of the Economic diplomacy to realize foreign policy strategy of the Federal Republic of Germany

Author: Azret Kumakhov

Academic Adviser: Solovieva E.A., Assistant Professor, PhD, Political Science

Organization: School of International Relations, Chair of International Relations, World Economy and International Law, Pyatigorsk State University.

Relevance of the research issue: Currently, economic diplomacy is becoming the fundamental tool for achieving the goals set for the state. The development of the German model of economic diplomacy is was of particular interest, because Germany is one of the most influential participants in international relations, and ranks first in Europe in terms of industrial production and capital exports

The purpose of the work is to identify effective mechanisms of economic diplomacy and determine their role in the implementation of German foreign policy

Research objectives:

- to analyze conceptual approaches of the study of "economic diplomacy";
- to identify the role of economic diplomacy in national interests of the state;
- to analyze the models of economic diplomacy of the modern states;
- to trace the process of establishing and development of the German model of economic diplomacy;
- to characterize foreign policy priorities, the main directions and mechanisms for realizing the economic diplomacy of the FRG at the current stage;
- to identify the main tendencies for the further development of Germany's economic diplomacy.

Scientific novelty is to consider and critical analysis of theoretical approaches in the category of «economic diplomacy» to political economics, to review the mechanisms of economic diplomacy in the context of network diplomacy; to analyze of new tendencies in the development of economic diplomacy at the present stage: the specificities of staffing, organizational, legal procuring for the economic component of foreign policy; to identify impediments that predetermine the features of the formation and development of Germany's economic diplomacy, and the prerequisites for its effectiveness.

Structure: the two chapters, containing three paragraphs, the conclusion and a 105-reference bibliography (45 of which are in foreign languages) and the 6 Appendixes. The total volume is 105 pages.

Summary: The modern Germany claims on the decisive role in the system of Western alliances and international organizations, that it was possible resulting from the country's unification, to increased German`s capacities in the economic sphere.

German-Russian economic cooperation is the main component of the process of mutual rapprochement. An important common goal is also the integration of the German-Russian partnership into a partnership between Russia and the European Union. The process of mutual adaptation and integration of the economies of Russia and the EU remains the key process in European policy and economic diplomacy in Russia.

The role and importance of Germany and its economic diplomacy in global political processes, and in Russian-German bilateral relations and bilateral relations with other countries are weighty.

The experience and achievements of Germany's economic diplomacy should take into account development Russian economic diplomacy and best to in cooperation on the international arena in order to enhance Russia's competitiveness.