

SUMMARY

Subject matter: Technology of the organization of group work in training of the communicative competence of pupils speaking another language at a younger stage of school

Author: Leila H. Babaeva

Supervisor: candidate of pedagogical science of Chair of Intercultural communications, linguadidactis, pedagogical technologies of training and education, Phd of pedagogics R.V. Managarov

The supervising organization: Pyatigorsk State University

The relevance of the study: The urgency of a theme of research is connected with an insufficient inclusiveness of group technologies in process of training of younger schoolboys to skills of speech activity at lessons of German language

The aim of the research is theoretically and practically to prove expediency of use of group technologies for development of speech activity of younger schoolboys at lessons of German language, to develop exercises on the basis of group technologies for use at a lesson

Objectives:

1. To analyse lingua-psychological features of younger schoolboys
2. To consider functions and possibilities of application of group forms of work with a view of optimization of speech activity of younger schoolboys
3. To consider methodical and didactic principles of the organization of group work in training of younger schoolboys of the communicative competence speaking another language.
4. To develop exercises on the basis of group forms of work for optimization of speech activity of pupils of younger school at a lesson

The theoretical and the practical value of the research: The theoretical importance of research is in a substantiation of expediency of use of a method of group work for formation of the communicative competence speaking another language at a stage of younger school, in detailed consideration of principles and receptions of the organization of group work at a lesson of German language at younger school.

The practical importance of research consists that in the given work we develop some receptions of group work which can be used at a lesson of German language at younger school for formation of the communicative competence of pupils

The results obtained: the developed receptions of the organization of group work for training to German language at younger school

Recommendations: possibility of realization of the developed receptions in the course of training of the communicative competence speaking another language at younger school.