

SUMMARY

Research topic:Semantic inadequacy of attributive composites and phrases in the German language

Author:Natalia Georgiyevna Marukhina

Supervisor:Candidate of linguistic sciences, Professor of the Chair of Germanistics and Intercultural Communication Malinin B.A.

Supervising organization:Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University

This qualification work is devoted to the research of attributive relations in the phrase and in the structure of composite in the modern German language.

The topicality of this research lies in the need of a concrete criterion's detection of a real form of determinate structure, and also thorough design of attributive relation.

The main aim of this work is the detection of functional and structural patterns. We also have to define conditions of using attributive phrase and compound word. This work is divided into introduction, two chapters, conclusion and the list of books.

In the first chapter we considered existing views on Theory of Compounding in the Act of Nomination. We analyze attributive compound words and attributive phrases, and also their principles of performance in speech.

The second chapter is devoted to the analysis of applied material: examples from the press, books, informal language.

In conclusion we stated the results of our analysis.