

Abstract
Graduation Level of Proficiency Paper
Bachelor's degree

Subject matter: «Interactive teaching methods for the development of foreign language communicative competence (by the material of the English language)»

Author: Kovger Ekaterina Andreevna

Research Supervisor: Associate Professor of Intercultural Communication, Linguodidactics, Pedagogic Technologies of Education. T.N. Yarmina

Research Initiator: Pyatigorsk State University

Information about customer organization: Institute of Foreign languages and International Tourism

Topical Importance: The relevance of this topic is due to the provision of conditions for the formation of students with the appropriate modern level of knowledge of the picture of the world and the development of their interest in the world and national cultures.

Goal: the analysis of interactive teaching methods and evidence of the effectiveness of their use in foreign language lessons.

Tasks:

- to study and systematize theoretical and practical material on the research topic;
- reveal the basic concepts of the research topic;
- to analyze the modern requirements for foreign language teaching in secondary school;
- to identify the features of the formation of communicative competence in teaching English;
- to analyze interactive teaching methods for the formation of communicative competence in English;
- to develop a collection of games for the development of foreign language communicative competence in English.

Theoretical value consists in the systematization and detailed analysis of the existing material in the framework of this study.

Practical applicability: it is reflected in the developed collection of games for the development of foreign language communicative competence, which can be used in English lessons at school and in additional or optional classes in English to improve the efficiency of the educational process and the formation of foreign language communicative competence in English.

Results: The results of study are interesting and compelling. The conclusions are well-designed, robust and solid.

Implementation advice: The created book of games for learning English can be used as additional material in English lessons that improve the efficiency of the educational process at school or as the main material in optional classes in English.