

Abstract

on the graduation thesis made by Baykazieva L. M., a 4th year student of Institute of Humanities of PSLU

on the topic of “The site design of an entertaining centre”

Research supervisor: associate professor Pisarenko Y. A.

The amount of work 66 pages, including 15 in fig., 3 in tables, 31 lit. sources, 2 applications.

Keywords: design of the site, technologies of designing, HTML code of the site, web hosting, web - design, Internet - Browsers, design tools.

Final qualifying work carried out on 22 sheets with an explanatory note on 66 pages devoted to website designing of entertaining center. The developed site is a hallmark of dance - club and provides information about the organization to users in the network.

The necessity of designing of the product was justified in this work. There was developed the structure of the site and identified its key functional elements. The key hardware, software and technological design tools were also selected. The web - site design was developed, the linkages of program modules and data files were also marked.

The practical result of this final qualifying work is the web - site designing of an entertaining centre, in order to attract customers to entry to school dances.

In the feasibility study the costs of development and implementing of site were estimated, and its efficiency was proved.