

The theme of the graduation thesis is “Studying Russian accentology within foreign language audience (noun masculine)”

Author: Kanygina Daria Yurievna

Supervisor of Studies: Professor of Pedagogics, Senior of the Chair of Russian Philology Isaev Leonid Nikitievich.

Topicality of Research: the necessity of substantiation the theoretical foundations of the correct selection of the techniques and methods of teaching foreign students Russian accent as means of communication.

The aim of the Thesis: to work out recommendations to improve efficiency of working with accent in noun masculine within foreign language audience.

The Tasks:

- to define the main features of the Russian verbal accent;
- to analyze the reasons of mistakes in accents;
- to work out the most efficient techniques and methods of teaching the rules for right accent in noun masculine;
- to define the ways of overcoming these difficulties;
- to test some methods in teaching practice.

Conclusion: There has been determined the main features and rules of the Russian accent in noun masculine, detected the fact that the accent in the Russian language is a specific feature of every word, in this case the importance of accent presents one of the means used for differentiating words, grammatical forms of words, stylistic nuance of words. There has been developed ways of establishing and improving the techniques and methods of teaching foreign students Russian accent, prepared phonetic exercises directed at forming and correction of pronunciation skills of foreign students.

Recommendations for possible usage: The facts obtained in the process of the research may be used in developing Practice tutorials of the Russian language as a foreign one and compiling textbooks of initiative phonetic courses of the Russian language. The material can be useful for students of specialty “The Russian language as a foreign one”. The language material can also be included in linguadidactical and practical manuals to prepare pupils for the Common State Examination and to teach the Russian language as a foreign one.