The relevance of the research is determined by the insufficient knowledge of paroemiological discourse as a specific type of text with its distinctive characteristics. At the same time, the analysis of structural and semantic aspects of phraseological units and paroemias with the components that are part of a particular sphere of concepts, will contribute to a better understanding of the Anglophone linguistic world-image.

The purpose of the work is to perform a comprehensive analysis of the formal and semantic characteristics and to identify the functions of the English phraseological units and paroemias with the components of the concept "BREAD".

The objectives of the research:

1. To denote the range of the linguistic units – the components which are included in the concept "BREAD".
2. To study the history of the concept "BREAD" in Anglo-Saxon linguoculture.
3. To analyze the structure and the semantics of the phraseological units and paroemias with the components of the concept "BREAD" in English.
4. To denote the functioning areas of the phraseological units and paroemias with the components of the concept "BREAD" in the English language.
5. To specify the term of "paroemiological discourse".

The theoretical and practical relevance of the research. The results of this study can contribute to the theoretical understanding of the problems of the discursive analysis, to be exact, the analysis of the paroemiological language Corpus as well as the functioning of the phraseological units from the point of usage in their structures of certain components belonging to the sphere of concept. The practical relevance of the research reflects the potential for using its results in the theoretical courses in lexicology (phraseology), general linguistics, typology, in the lessons on the practical course of the English language.

The results of the research were tested at the annual regional scientific and practical conferences of young scientists, postgraduates and students of PSU "Young Science-2019, 2020" and are reflected in the following publications:

1. On the notion of "the axiological component" of the concept "BREAD" in the English linguoculture // Young Science-2019, Pyatigorsk: PSU, 2019;
2. Phraseological meaning of the idioms with the component " pie " // Young science-2020, Pyatigorsk: PSU, 2020.

Future references. Studying the concepts that form the linguistic world-image allows us to study the mentality of an entire nation. The directions for further research in this area is, in our opinion, to analyze the concept sphere of "BREAD" in works of fiction to identify the descriptive features of the characters, as well as to conduct a comparative study on the matter of several languages.
